

Good morning, good afternoon or good evening for you who's listening to this podcast, my name is Melissa and you can call me teacher Mel. How're you doing? To be honest with you, I'm a little down. Actually, I'm devastated. You won't believe what happened yesterday, it's something terribly bad. Can I tell you? So, there I was, going home, after a hard day because I worked a lot. I was going back home about half past 5 o'clock in my car. I was driving while I was listening to music. I was listening to Britney Spears and I was also singing when suddenly it started to rain. But it wasn't a normal rain, it was a pouring rain. It was raining so heavily that I could barely see the road. After this, I remembered I was late to a birthday party. It was happening at my mother's house, so I decided to start driving faster to get there as soon as possible. I was driving really fast when a cute, lovely dog came out of nowhere. I didn't want to run it over, so I swerved to the right not to hit the dog and I didn't. The dog escaped, yeah! When I turned right I ended up crashing into a lamp post, I didn't get hurt. But my poor, nice car was completely destroyed. And that's the story, the good part of it, is that it was only a nightmare! I didn't really crash my car, my car is safe and sound. But, what about you? Have you ever seen an accident, have you ever been involved in one? What were you doing? What happened? Share this story with me, please. For today, that's all folks, I'll see you soon, bye!
